To: Whom it may concern,

Aqui-Ver and Mr. Gary Beckett's services were recently retained to perform a pump test for a project in Escondido, California. A step test was performed to evaluate shallow groundwater conditions at the site. This study was required to aid in the design and bidding process for a dewatering system during construction of the project.

Mr. Beckett was contacted on the advise of a two experts in the field of groundwater who were able to provide his name and phone number. Mr. Beckett was very helpful and responsive to our needs. Since timing was critical to our client he responded accordingly by rearranging his schedule to perform the pump test within a few days. He was to provide a report of the pump test results within one or two weeks after finishing the pump test. Much to my delight and surprise, his report arrived in my office within one week of performing the test, one week sooner than required. This was very helpful as it allowed me the time required to prepare our report and finish the job on schedule.

To perform the pump test, Mr. Beckett was very thorough in arranging the necessary equipment and coordinating with our office. He was very informative and responsive. He has also followed up and provided a proposal for additional work as recommended in his report. I am pleased to recommend his services to others and work with Mr. Beckett in the future.
